

Week 0
Objectives	You can use this week to read and understand the teaching plan of the subject, and get used to the different modules, as well as practice a little with the CalcMe calculator.
Keep in mind	The planning of this course can seem a little packed, you should begin studying as soon as possible, following the studying plan for the next week. The more work you can advance at the beginning of the course, the more relaxed you will be in the future. You should get used to the material of the subject, but don't get scared! We will practice everything in time.
