Results

Kevin Zamora Amela

3 questions require grading

0 %

0

Out of 3 points

01:15:46

Time for this attempt

Your Answers:

1 point possible Essay

Name five examples of human mistakes in using information systems.

Maximum 100 words.

We are going to highlight five human mistakes examples:

1. Majority of people don't usually read enough.
2. Most of us usually show or save them credentials (saving/sharing username and passwords everywhere and without being aware)
3. Don't usually have the habbit of creating backups of their sensitive and important information/data.
4. Don't protect and be aware of our privacity, leading to share almost overal.
5. Don't be aware of internet surfing risks.

Waiting for grade

70 words 100 max (word limit)

2 point possible Essay

Name three examples of human errors that threaten information systems.

Maximum 100 words.

Three examples of human errors that threaten information systems are:

- System misconfiguration: Leaving databases or servers publicly exposed to the internet without security settings.
- Accidental deletion or modification: Erasing essential files or altering critical data by mistake.
- Loss of physical devices: Leaving laptops, smartphones, or unencrypted USB drives behind in public places.

Waiting for grade

52 words 100 max (word limit)

3 1 point possible Essay

What is meant by ‘social engineering’?

Maximum 100 words.

Social engineering is a psychological manipulation technique used by cybercriminals to trick people. Its main goal is to convince users to reveal confidential information (such as passwords or bank details) or perform risky actions (such as downloading malware) by gaining their trust or creating a false sense of urgency.

Waiting for grade

49 words 100 max (word limit)